Virtual Corflu

Zoom number 603 746 8803 Password (C0rflu40 – zeros not letters)

Corflu has a long tradition of virtual participation and that's going to continue this year as well. Whilst it is great that people can take part online – to manage this interactively is frankly, a right pain in the arse. I want people at the con to enjoy themselves and interact with those there in person – rather than get tied to a laptop screen during programme items. That said the logistics team will be hopping off and on the zoom and catching up with any issues etc.

Discord. As with recent Corflus there will also be an online Discord channel. I know lots of people don't think of this as a thing they want to get involved in – but it really has helped with lots of discussion prior to the convention, and is a great place to hang out online if you can't get to the con itself. A huge thanks to Claire Brialey for the organisation and set-up of this year's version. The one set up for Corflu Concorde still works – here:

<https://discord.gg/rcQmjNdUCH>

You can use your existing Discord logon or register with a new one, then just look for Corflu.

It will still be available during and after the con if you've not managed to get one. I'm happy to take delivery and hand over at Eastercon if required. Email me for address details.

Programme - highlights

As with all Corflus this is really an opportunity for us to get together in person. Whilst we will have people on panels I'm hoping that the audience will, when invited, get involved as well. There's nothing worse than a modern convention which is organised as a spectator sport – we all know each other, we all know about fanzines and our hobby – let's share and get involved. I promise you – it will be more fun for everyone, including yourself.

The full programme will be available at the con in the ReadMe, put together by Rob Jackson – highlights are:

In Memoriam

I was very touched with the item at Pangloss on those we had lost in our community the previous year – and wanted to do something similar at Craic. Given this is Corflu's 40th birthday I thought it was a good time to look back further and acknowledge all those who have contributed over the past forty years and celebrate them. Gary has updated the list – happy for further revision – and Bill has put it on the web site here:

<https://corflu.org/Corflu40/FansDeceasedSince1984.pdf>

The idea is that this will be a chance for everyone to contribute thoughts and memories of those they remember and, as Terry Pratchett said in Going Postal: "A man is not dead while his name is still spoken."

Please join us and let's speak their names.

Auction – after brunch on Sunday

We've got some fantastic items for auction at Corflu Craic – building on our themes of celebrating Irish Fandom and 40 years of Corflu:

- Slant – issues 3 – 7 – 5 chances to own a copy of this legendary fanzine.
- Hyphen – a range of issues – which need to be seen to be believed.
- Shangri-L'Affaires from the 1940s – very rare and unlikely to be seen again
- Voice of the Imagination – really keen to see this.

All of the above are from Joe Siclari – for which many thanks.

Greg Pickersgill has also sent a box of fanzines for auction and sale – and some of the highlights include.

- The Harp Stateside – original edition which I'm very keen to own.
- The Futurian – two issues from 1939
- By British – the 1970s collection of British fan writing
- And some classic zines like Triode, Orion, Retribution...

Geri Sullivan and James Bacon will be hosting this and we'll try and get something organised for online bids – with a catalog as well.

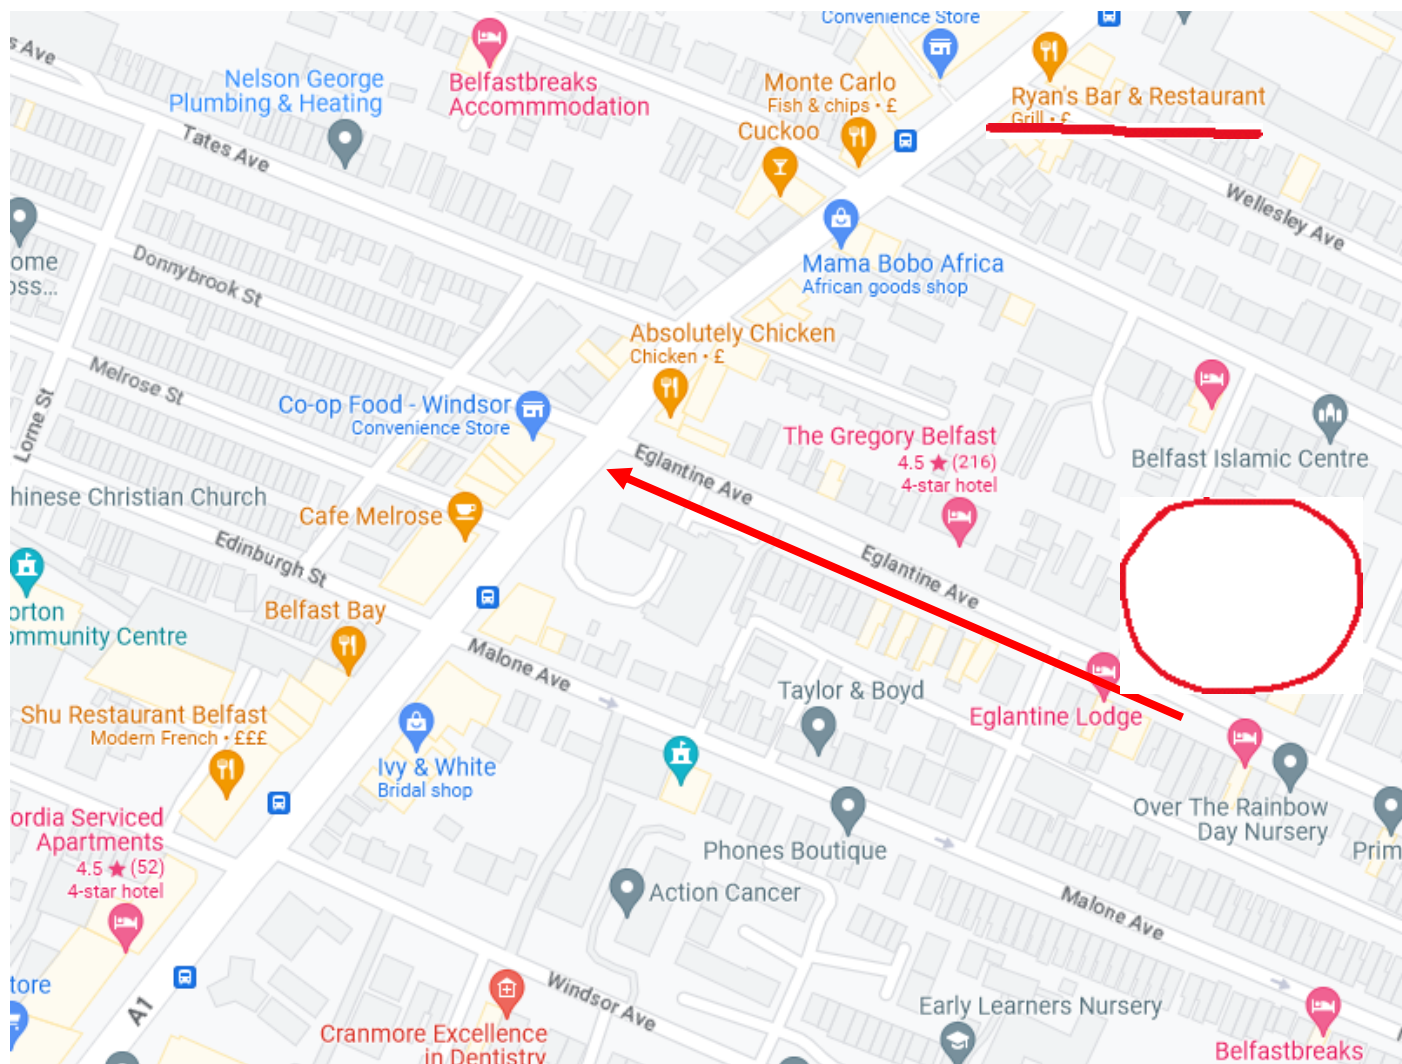

So, get your party rags packed, it's going to be a blast.

Food & Drink – Part 2

This time we're turning right out of the hotel and heading down to the Lisburn Road end of Eglantine Avenue. As you can see from the map there are loads of cafes, restaurants and a couple of pubs – I've underlined Ryans as a good first stop to get the lay of the land. The Lisburn Road, if you turn left at the bottom of Eglantine Avenue gets progressively 'posher' and the shops are more boutique – but it also means the coffee and the cafes are of a much better quality than the other end of the street. For quick and cheap eats – turn right and you can see from the map the chip shop, and there's also a pizza and Indian food takeaway – all of which are reasonable quality.

Here a few others worth checking out.

1. Shu – This is one of my favourite restaurants in Belfast and its head chef, Matt Jordan, recently featured on the Great British Menu on the BBC: <https://www.greatbritishchefs.com/features/great-british-menu-2023-gbm-northern-ireland-preview> It's a bit pricey – so special occasions and you'll need to book.

2. French Village is a great café-cum-bistro – all sourced locally and a fantastic bakery. Highly recommended and reasonably priced.

Not a great picture I'm afraid but you can see there is a store to the left where you can buy produce as well.

3. The Yellow Door. Some of the best bread and pastries in Belfast – my wife Leslie used to be the head baker here. Rich and dark coffees too – will certainly wake you up in the morning.

4. The Raj – Another great Indian restaurant on the street – a bit further up the road. This has been a Belfast institution for as long as I’ve lived here – well over 30 years – and there is a reason for that.

FANAC Scanning Station
FANAC will have a scanning station at Corflu Craic in Belfast at the end of March, and we hope to have one at Conversation 2023, the Birmingham Eastercon being held the following week. If you are planning to attend either of these, please bring fanzines for us to scan. If you can, write to let us know so we can plan ahead.

For more details contact: belfast@corflu.org

Please remember two things: First, to scan each issue, we carefully take each issue apart and then re-staple it. Second, we do not put fanzines online without permission from editors who are still around. Keep that in mind when you bring them. If you can provide contact information for the editor, we'll try to reach them later. In the meantime, we will keep them archived until the editors can be reached. If you're not sure, drop a note to fanac@fanac.org.

Of course, please check the site first to see if the issues are already online. We're hoping to get some quality Irish/UK/European zines that we haven't had access to in the past.
